Such answers will be removed and the last answer will be nominated as the answer. A Queens family has been left terrified after a vicious home invasion in which the homeowner was shot and his wife and young son were held at gunpoint. The family was asleep at their home at 546 44th Rd. just before 2 a.m. when a man entered their home and yelled "Don't move," before jumping on the homeowner's back and yelling "Don't make me shoot you," according to the NYPD. Moments later, police said the man pointed the gun at the homeowner's wife, who was also at home at the time, and another child in the home, and demanded money and drugs. As the home invader was ransacking the home, the homeowner was able to wrestle the gun away from him and held him at gunpoint until police arrived, authorities said. The man ran off, and the family managed to call police. The husband told cops he chased the 1cdb36666d
